Council hears first reading of anti-smoking ordinance

by Lindy Magner

At its Tuesday meeting, the City Council heard the first reading of a proposed non-smoking ordinance which would ban all cigarette vending machines within the city and prohibit smoking in workplaces, restaurants and public buildings.

Bars would be exempt from the new regulations and restaurant and business owners would have the option of allowing smoking if they meet strict National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH) ventilation standards.

The proposed ordinance would also require hotel and motel owners to designate half of their rooms as non-smoking and would prohibit the distribution of free tobacco samples and coupons in public areas.

The ordinance will be brought back to the council April 5 for a second reading and final vote. If adopted as expected, the ordinance - classified as an urgency ordinance - would become effective immediately instead of 30 days from adoption.

According to a written report by Lesley Frazier, city personnel technician, the city expects the ordinance to be "self-enforced" by business owners.

However, the ordinance will include a penalty provision with fines levied on businesses violating the ordinance.

For several months, the proposed ordinance has been a work in progress as staff researched recommendations made by council and followed direction in drafting an ordinance which will replace the city's less restrictive tobacco-control ordinance adopted in 1987.

That ordinance required owners of restaurants seating 50 or more patrons to designate non-smoking areas.

In discussing the new ordinance, council first directed staff to include a provision requiring businesses to secure special permits in order to sell cigarettes, thus allowing the city to revoke the permits of merchants selling to minors.

This provision is one suggested by the state-funded Project TRUST, which has been lobbying cities countywide to adopt tough anti-smoking ordinances.

However, at its March 1 meeting, council, following the lead of Mayor Brian Cochran, decided against such a provision. Cochran expressed concern that such a provision would cost staff time and would duplicate the state law prohibiting the sale of cigarettes to minors.

During a public hearing at the March 15 meeting, resident and school board trustee Carol Chubb expressed concern that a five-member council and not the majority of residents was deciding to take away a personal choice such as smoking.

"You need to put it on the ballot and let residents vote on it. The Lemon Grove School district banned smoking, but it was a vote of the employees to do so."

Development approved

by Lindy Magner

This time, council approval came easy for a developer whose first proposal for a planned housing development in the San Miguel Avenue/69th Street area was shot down following emotional testimony by nearby residents that the density of the development would ruin the neighborhood's rural atmosphere.

The 9.35-acre development lies within 23 acres designated as Special Treatment Area IV. That

Arbor Day planting at Monterey Heights

In celebration of California's Arbor Day, March 7, the local Home Depot donated eight purple orchid trees to the Lemon Grove School District. The staffs of the district's eight schools selected these trees.

Last Wednesday, one special class got the honors of helping plant one of the trees near Monterey Heights Elementary School's administrative office. Assistance was lent by a district grounds worker (behind tree) and teacher Michelle Whatley (foreground).

State concerned over school district's bilingual teacher shortage

by Lindy Magner

With an influx of students who need instruction in their native language, the Lemon Grove School District has been struggling to keep up with the ratio of bilingual teachers for those students, as required by state law.

Recently, the state Department of Education notified the school district that it was in non-compliance of regulations and put the district on a plan to increase its number of Spanish-speaking teachers from two to eight over the next two years.

According to Dr. Connie Fish, assistant superintendent of instruction, the district's eight schools include a total of 130 Spanish-speaking students who have tested as needing their courses taught in their native language. Fish said it takes about three to five years for a student to become proficient enough in English to enter regular classes.

"The state requires that we have eight teachers for the amount of (non-English speaking and limited-English-proficient) students we have," she said, adding that though the district has had the shortage for a while, the state is now aggressively enforcing the bilingual teacher requirements.

"Over time, the state can take funds away, so there are some sanctions (for continuing non-compliance)," she said, explaining that because the district does have about 15 bilingual classroom aides, the state has been more willing to give the district some time to find its number of required bilingual teachers. The aides work in the regular classrooms, translating materials into a student's native language.

"If we didn't have the bilingual aides, the state would be really upset with us," she said.

Currently, the district offers a kindergarten class in Spanish as well as language arts instruction for first- and second-graders at Vista La Mesa Elementary, the school with the highest number of Spanish-speaking students. Kindergartners from other schools' boundaries are bused to those classes

By fall, the district hopes to hire two or three more bilingual teachers and add a second-grade bilingual class as well as "combination classes" for second/third and fourth/fifth grades, with instruction in both Spanish and English. These classes will be offered at Vista La Mesa, and another kindergarten class may be needed and possibly would be offered at San Miguel Elementary, which has the second highest number of Spanish-speaking students, Fish said.

She noted that Lemon Grove Middle School also has a high number of students needing to be taught in Spanish, and one of the bilingual teachers scheduled for hiring in the 1995-96 school year may be for that school.

10 candidates file for 3 City Council seats up for election June 7

by Lindy Magner

(Editor's Note: This is the first part of a two-part article profiling candidates).

Yesterday, the filing period closed for the three City Council seats which will be up for election June 7.

The 10 residents who filed include David Winter, Jack Moore, Dwight Shelley, Jeffrey Jandura, John Wood, Thomas Clabby, Dale Olsen, Mary Sessom, Stephen Custeau and the only incumbent, Councilman Craig Lake.

Not seeking re-election are Mayor Brian Cochran who opted to run for the 52nd Congressional District seat and Councilwoman Lois Heiserman who at age 75 decided to retire.

Shelley, co-owner of a local business for 23 years, D&M Welding, decided to run following nine years of serving on the city's Planning Commission.

"I really enjoyed being on the commission; it was educational - you learn how the city works," said the 49-year old who wants to stay involved with city issues.

A member of the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce, he served on its board of directors for nine years in the late 1970s and early 1980s. He feels the city has had "good leadership" though there are a few issues he would like to see tackled.

"Crime is a situation which has to be addressed, and better maintenance of city property and roads," he said.

Jandura, an attorney who serves on the city's Planning Commission, also feels the commission has been a good training ground in how city government works.

"On the commission, you get a feel for what's going on in the city - serving on the City Council seems like a natural progression," he said, noting that he will complete his sixth year on the commission this fall. He said it's important that qualified residents "step forward" to run for council.

A graduate of Drake University Law School, he and his family have lived in Lemon Grove since 1985. A major priority for him is for council to maintain its opposition to Caltrans' access ramps for the state Route 125 extension.

"I'm strongly against ramps at Palm and at Ildica. They would disrupt the neighborhoods. It's important that we stand firm.

Winter, 30, a native of Spring Valley and a 1981 graduate of Mount Miguel High School, has lived in Lemon Grove two years. He said he began thinking about run

Local attorneys, teachers and students participate in violence-reduction project.

On March 9 attorneys Constantine D. Buzunis and David B. Norris came back to high school. As part of a unique pilot partnership project with the State Bar of California and Citizenship and Law-Related Education Center, Buzunis and Norris are returning to high school to help students at Mount Miguel craft a solution to address violence in their community.

For the month of April, local attorneys and community members will be working with AVID students in Mrs. Roxie Edler's "0" period class as part of a new citizenship and law-related education project called "Law Works."

The introduction project is a six-week, curriculum- driven activity designed to foster an awareness among students of the law and legal disciplines as tools with which to address community problems or local concerns.

With the support and guidance of Edler and community leaders, the "Law Works" students will practice citizenship; develop an action plan that they feel will best define and address the problem of violence in their neighborhood or even the nation as a whole.

"We know that students learn best when they are active participants in the learning process. That is the reason I feel "Law Works" will be a valuable project for the students and our community." said Edler, reflecting on the program.

Eleven schools from diverse communities are participating in the "Law Works" pilot project including San Diego, South San Francisco, Chino, Newport Beach, East Los Angeles, Long Beach, Santa Barbara, Oakland and Sacramento.

Each school will produce its own "solution" or community campaign dealing with violence, based on the needs and resources of their particular community. All of the student-produced campaigns will be shared with parents, educators, civic leaders and the legal community on or around Law Day, May 1st.

"Law Works" recently received an award of Merit from the American Bar Association as an outstanding public education project. Plans are under way for the expansion of "Law Works" to additional schools in California and across the nation for Law Day 1995.

Heartland seeking public input

Heartland Human Relations & Fair Housing Association is soliciting public input concerning human service needs in conjunction with the County of San Diego Department of Social Services Community Action Partnership (CAP).

The CAP is developing the 1995 local plan for the county's anti-poverty programs.

Heartland is collecting data to facilitate this process by surveying individuals and groups in the community, as well as the clients served.

The key question is: What services do residents see as necessary to help low-income persons and families become more self-sufficient? Public input is needed. Drop by the office on March 28 between 9 a.m. and 2 p.m. or submit written statements to:

B-Words Personal comments of Councilman Bob Burns

Council candidates

It is very gratifying to hear that nearly a dozen people took out papers to run for the Lemon Grove City Council.

The more the merrier, and the better to have a wide choice of candidates to choose from. With only one incumbent, Mr. Craig Lake, running for re-election, there will be two uncontested seats. The choices will be for the top three vote-getters to occupy the seats up for election.

From what I know of those who will possibly be running, I must say that it looks like there will be many fine choices. All appear to be sincere and genuinely interested in being part of what is good about Lemon Grove, and preserving what we have started. I know that there will be diversity in the desires and plans for the future of our town, but I'm sure that they will all be positive.

The willingness to run cannot be selfish as far as money is concerned because the pay is very low. I believe that we remunerate our council members at the lowest rate of all San Diego County cities. Even though we are a small city there is much to do in visiting the sites of controversy or development. Much homework is needed to read all of the reports and proposals. Our meetings are usually of medium length, but can be long at times. Many decisions are agonizing to make as we try to please everybody, which is impossible. In public office, one must take some slings and arrows as a matter of course.

As public officials we seem to inherit a large target on our backs that invites the wrath of the dissatisfied populace. Most are honest and sincere even if misguided. This is not to say that all are misguided, because we are human and can make mistakes.

During a recent interview, I was asked what I would advise those who contemplated running for our City Council. Aside from the negative caveats above, I offered that they should try to shed personal appeals in return for a regional or overall perspective of the issues that will be confronting them. It is perfectly natural to have a little of the NIMBY (Not In My Back Yard) feeling and a good council member should be able to put oneself in the place of another who is impacted by an issue. Also, however, it is important to be able to consider the entire community in any decision, and to weigh the benefits or injuries to the greatest number of townspeople. The old Golden Rule is still the best rationale behind any decision.

Again, I welcome all comers and am very encouraged that the public will examine each candidate, ask them questions about issues that are of concern and, above all, GET OUT AND VOTE. The upcoming forums prior to the June election will give ample opportunity for the voters to do so. The voters of Lemon Grove have always made wise decisions, and will certainly do so again.

NEW NAMES, NEW FACES, APPEARING NOW IN EMPTY PLACES

Sonya Heiserman is the new librarian at Lemon Grove Library. She comes to us from an assignment that included both the Spring Valley and Bonita branches. Sonya has been a San Diego County resident for many years and has ties to Lemon Grove where her husband, Chris, attended school, and Lois Heiserman, her mother-in-law, has been active in city government since Lemon Grove incorporated.

Sonya attended school in New Mexico, took her degree in librarianship at the University of Arizona, and started library work in San Diego.

Her first assignment was in the old branch library in Lemon Grove, on Pacific Ave., near the present location of the Grove Pastry Shop. She was later assigned to La Mesa, El Cajon, Santee, and Poway as she was promoted.

Sonya took some time from her career when she and her husband started a family. Now that their two boys are growing up, she is an enthusiastic full-time librarian, eager to work with us in Lemon Grove. You will often find her at the reference desk; stop by to say hello.

Mary Keeley, Lemon Grove Library's new branch manager, was born in New Orleans but says that she left there so young that she has no memories of it. Her father was in the service and his career brought the family to San Diego.

Mary came into the county library system in 1981 when she started as a substitute library technician. Very soon she was the branch manager in Pine Valley, a fourteen hour a week assignment, then she went on to head the audio-visual section at the main library headquarters, an assignment she continued until 1991, when she went to Casa de Oro as branch manager.

Mary likes to write and has had some of her work published. She also enjoys travel and would like to do more of it.

Our present staff at the Lemon Grove Library:

Librarian: Sonya Heiserman
Branch Manager: Mary Keeley
Technicians: Barbara Alvarez, Ruth Alcala, and Paula Rosete.

The many volunteers who assist in shelving, repairing books, doing whatever they can to help, are not named here but can be seen throughout the library. Many thanks are due them.

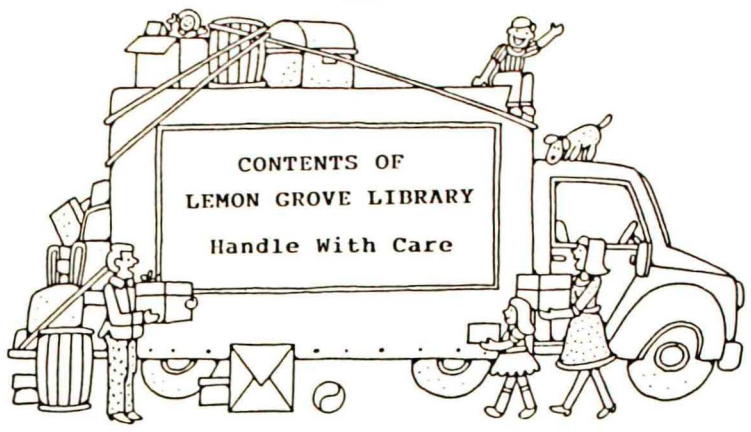
AUTO REPAIR MANUALS BEING REPLACED

The reference set of Chilton automotive repair manuals in our library was the chief victim of vandals/ arsonists' damage in Nov. The books were charred and are no longer usable.

These reference books were in constant use by "shade tree mechanics", young people, amateurs who like to work on their own cars but need to know the intricacies of individual models and years. They have missed the reference manuals.

Friends of the Library have been accepting donations specifically for replacement of the manuals, which are very expensive. Avril Lane, who says that she is a mechanic herself, has written and telephoned directly to the publishers of Chilton and explained our plight. They have sent us, free of charge, seven of the manuals, one of them written in Spanish. We owe Avril and Chilton many, many thanks.

If you have such a manual at home and are ready to part with it, please donate it to the library. It doesn't need to be brand-new, and it is badly needed.



LIBRARY TO CLOSE FOR REMODELING

Closing of the Lemon Grove Library from March 28 to April 28 will allow upgrading of the leased property. New carpeting will be installed, fresh paint, attention to the plumbing and air conditioning. The children's section will be moved closer to the desk; adult fiction will be toward the rear. It will seem like new quarters when we all return.

Starting March 28, the library will be closed to the public. Books will be packed up and moved out; shelves and furniture moved, to give installers and painters clear access.

This refurbishing would be welcome anyway, but is especially needed now due to vandalism that occurred in Nov. when an incendiary device was thrown in after-hours, causing fire damage to the carpet and furniture, as well as to valuable reference books.

Library patrons who have books checked out when the library closes, due for return during April, may return them to any of the county library branches. Some nearby branches are listed below.

La Mesa, 8055 University, La Mesa
Casa de Oro, 9628 Campo Rd., Spring Valley
Spring Valley 1043 Elkelton, Spring Valley

Your county library card is good at any branch; you may check out books there or at any San Diego City library, where your card is also welcome.

A nearby city library is:
Oak Park, 2802 54th St., San Diego

The book drop in Lemon Grove will not be open until the library re-opens, which is expected to be April 28.

VOLUNTEERS NEEDED MARCH 28 - 31

Willing helpers needed to help library staff in packing entire library collection for storage. Please wear work clothes. If you can donate only an hour or two, it will be helpful and greatly appreciated.

No sign-ups needed, just come to the library at 8:30 a.m. or after, March 28-31, and identify yourself as a volunteer. The library will be closed for regular business; volunteers will need to knock at the glass doors for admission.

Our newly elected treasurer, Ron Day, is waiting by an empty mailbox, ready for an avalanche of renewals and new membership to arrive.

Be a part of the action. The library is getting a new look, a new floor arrangement; fresh books are arriving; dynamics are working for us. Supply your energy and ideas; be a part of the Friends. Clip and send the membership coupon below. Quickly, before you turn the page and it slips your mind.

GRANDPARENT READING PROGRAM BEGINS

An informal reading program for children began this month. Adults from the community have arranged times when they will be in the children's section of the library for an hour at a time to read to one or two or six children, whatever size group is there. Scheduled times and days Tuesday and Thursday, 10:30-11:30 Saturday afternoon, 2 - 3.

Mary Vinson, Chuck LeRoy, and Doris Townsend are the current Grandparent Readers.

LOY HOLMQUIST MEMORIAL SELECTED

Loy Holmquist, long a resident of Lemon Grove, a teacher, and a member of the Friends of the Library, died almost a year ago. A memorial fund was established in her name and with the approval of her family, that fund has been used for purchase of a new set of encyclopedias for the library. They will be placed in a special case with a brass placque affixed to it, identifying the volumes as a memorial to Loy Holmquist.

Loy was a member of the Friends of the Lemon Grove Library from the very first days of its formation. She was a part of every activity, doing whatever needed to be done, efficiently and without fuss, as she lived her life. We miss her.

As you know, I am extremely reluctant to "bad mouth" a piece of work of some dedicated author, and especially one of Koontz' stature. Briefly, I didn't like it and can only tell you to go ahead and give it a try. My buddy, Anne Conrad (ex-Lemon Grove Library boss), liked it and said that I would, and seldom, if ever, do we differ. This time is the exception which proves the rule, and I even failed to complete it. For me, it went off the scale of credulity when the "clone" could accept such physical damage so easily, because I hurt easily.

Seriously, I'm sure that Koontz knows lots more about this business than I, but his effort failed to move the DP needle. 0.0 DP

"A Political Affair" by Mickey Ziffren

Here's a great, timely, apropos novel which, though written in 1979, strikes a great blow for our wonderful women. I'm sure at that time it could almost have been labeled science-fiction. It was written by a most knowledgeable gal, intimately involved in the political scene of her time. It quite possibly could occur today, if it already hasn't, in the Feinstein era. She outwits her devious husband and his #1 friend, who happens to be the President, shocking some and igniting the emotions of others. At least it was Southern California (Orange County) which brings this humdinger to a resounding finish. I hope I haven't old you too much, but you'd better go find this "oldie but goodie" somewhere, possibly at one of your "Friendly" book sales. A strong 9 on DP's Richter scale. 9.0 DP

"Little House in the Big Woods" by Laura Wilder

This is a good story because it tells about life in the 1800's. This book has a lot of exciting parts like when Pa was on the way to town and he saw a bear, so he picked up a stick and hit the bear, but nothing happened, and the bear turned out to be a stump. Kids would like this story because it is funny. Some interesting things I learned are that kids played ball with a pig's bladder and they squeezed carrots to color butter. I hope other kids enjoy this story as much as I did.

"Storm Flight" by Mark Berent

This is the fifth and final novel in Berent's saga of the war in Vietnam. As a former fighter pilot in Vietnam, Berent brings authenticity to his work while at the same time weaving compelling action-packed plots.

This is one of his best. 8.9 BV

Kiwanis Korner

The Kiwanis Club of Lemon Grove is currently in the process of preparing for it's Pancake Day Breakfast fund raiser, which will be held on Saturday, May 7, at Lemon Grove Middle School.

The event will take place during Lemon Grove's "Old Time Days" festivities; and Kiwanians are looking forward to a successful turnout. When the pancake tickets go on sale in the near future, we hope you will support Kiwanis so we can continue to assist in meeting the needs our fine community.

Being a member of a fine service club like the Kiwanis Club of Lemon Grove, we get a lot of personal satisfaction out of being a positive resource for those worthy causes needing our assistance.

Each year, our Kiwanis Club can expect to lose a member or two because of job changes, relocations, etc. Therefore, it is essential that they be replaced with fine men and women who want to help their community and "give something back." If you are such a person, why not consider the Kiwanis Club of Lemon Grove to be your club.

Prospective members of a service club usually have a "burning desire" to serve their community; and that desire "burns brightest" when you find the "right match." For us, it is Kiwanis.

A lot of our current members have from 10 to over 30 years of continuous membership. Such dedication manifests an excellent Kiwanis Club which keeps its members coming back each week to enjoy each other's friendship, a good lunch, and many opportunities to participate in helping our fine community. With our Pancake Day Breakfast, we would sure like to see some new members in our club to help us get the job done efficiently.

The Kiwanis Club of Lemon Grove meets every Wednesday at noon, at the Lemon Grove Community Center, 3146 School Lane. Our Membership Chairman, Ray Mollenhauer, 3029 Lemon Grove Ave., Lemon Grove, Ca. 91945, 464-0390, would enjoy providing you with an application or additional information about our club.

ning for council when his wife expressed concern over crime.

"She's from a small town in Pennsylvania and she said she wanted us to move there because she was tired of how crime-ridden the San Diego area was becoming. I said, why don't we get involved in making Lemon Grove a better place."

Along with crime, he is concerned that small business owners face too many regulations when trying to set up shop here.

"I think one reason why we have vacant buildings in Lemon Grove is that there are a lot of restrictions on starting up businesses - I'd like to loosen those and let businesses get started first before having to meet so many regulations."

For the past 10 years, Winter, a 1989 graduate of the San Diego Police Academy, has been employed with the San Diego Community College Police Department. He is a member of Lemon Grove Congregational Church of Christ, the Lemon Grove Democratic Club and the San Diego Homing Pigeon Club. His family includes a 3-year-old daughter and a 2-year-old son.

Jack Moore, 55, an owner/manager of rental properties in Palm Springs and Lemon Grove, is making his second run for City Council.

In 1992, he finished third in the race for two open council seats.

He feels that the council should make as its priorities the maintenance of the city's infrastructure and ensure that property values do not fall. He also feels the city should give more financial support to youth programs, or at least encourage the private sector to fund youth sports and arts programs.

"City Hall needs me to oversee the city budget," said Moore,a graduate of San Diego State University with a degree in political science and economics.

A member of the Chamber of Commerce for nearly three years, he has served on the chamber's board of directors for the last two years. He also sits on the boards of the Palm Springs Condominium Association and the San Diego Chapter Community Association Institute, a national organization serving condominium associations.

And, he is an active member of the Lemon Grove Friends of the Library, the Lemon Grove Historical Society, the Lemon Grove Arts Complex and the city's anti-graffiti committee. Also, he is an office volunteer for the Sheriff's local substation.

Development approved

designation prohibits piecemeal development of the area.

At that July 6 meeting, council granted the residents' appeal of the Planning Commission's decision to approve 54-unit housing project and suggested that the developer and an ad hoc committee of residents meet to work out a development suitable to both. Of major concern were the planned development's lot sizes of about 3,500 square feet instead of the standard 6,000 feet required by the city of subdivisions, but not of planned developments which offer a common, open-space area.

At Tuesday night's council meeting, residents praised the developer, Sterling Partners/Alencia Development for cooperation which led to a proposed 46-unit development with lots of about 6,000 square feet with the pedestrian trail through the area suggested by the five-member residents' committee. Councilman Craig Lake was appointed to mediate meetings between the committee and developer Peter Sterling and his architect/partner Gary Nogle.

"We were ready to dig in and fight, but they presented a plan very much in line with what we asked for," said Dale Olsen, a member of the residents' committee. "They accepted the challenge, and the development will be an asset to Lemon Grove."

Nogle said Lake proved invaluable, stating that he probably "wouldn't be here tonight" if it wasn't for Lake's efforts.

One issue residents were still concerned about Tuesday night was the pedestrian trail recommended by the residents' committee to allow public access to the development, much of which is now an open field with red foxes and other wildlife.

The development plan approved by the council guarantees a pedestrian pathway from Mount Vernon Street to San Miguel Avenue, but whether that pathway will extend to San Miguel Elementary School as favored by the committee, is up to the developer and the school district.

Jim Butler, the city's community development director, said after the meeting that the resolution adopted by council allows for a connecting segment to the school, should the Lemon Grove School District approve such an easement.

Though resident Liz Recchia commented that the school district opposes granting the easement, the district's March 8 meeting agenda notes that no request for an easement has been submitted by the developer.

"The developer has never formally requested an easement; if no action is requested, then the board can't take any," district Superintendent Dr. Joe Farley said. He added that if the district receives such a request, the item will be placed before the governing board for a decision.

Also, Recchia was concerned that the "meandering" pathway the committee wanted may be "straightened out" and made of concrete rather than decomposed gravel.

According to Butler, the pathway will indeed meander, but it will be constructed with asphalt rather than decomposed gravel to ensure compliance with the Americans With Disabilities Act.

The developer requested that the construction phases of the project be modified so that all portions of the pedestrian trail could be completed in the first of four phases. Residents had no objections.
